University Partnerships and Awarding Bodies

All of our degree courses are validated by leading universities and developed in partnership with businesses.

The partnership institutions oversee our course curriculums and ensure they meet university quality and standards. They also act as our awarding bodies, so your degree certificate comes from the awarding university.

We also invite businesses to advise on our courses. This is to make sure we're developing the skills employers are looking for, and to create a clear route for you into your chosen industry.
