Monday, 22 November 2021

Bournemouth & Poole College is excited to announce the launch of BPCCREATE - the new face of creative evening and weekend courses at Bournemouth & Poole College.

BPCCREATE already has new and successful evening and weekend courses running at The College and high ambitions for new ones covering all areas of the Creative Industries.

We're looking for experts in the Creative Industries who are interested in sharing their experience and expertise with others to establish and run evening and weekend creative courses. Your course may be aimed at adults or under 18s and could be in any area of the creative industries - these include advertising and marketing, architecture, crafts, fine art, graphic design, fashion and textiles, esports, film, TV production, video, radio, photography, IT, software, computer services, publishing, music, performing arts and dance.

If you have degree level qualifications and/or industrial experience in your field, ambition, passion and ability to share your knowledge and experience, and the flexibility to work evenings or weekends - we want to hear from you!

We will support you by helping you to set up your course, providing great facilities, resources and technician support, and marketing your course and organising your students.

If you're interested in running a course with BPCCREATE, please contact us at bpccreate@thecollege.co.uk
