Inspiring Lives, Discovering Futures

The Course

In brief...

Many people find it helpful to seek counselling at some point in their lives, and a counsellor can provide support for people in all sorts of situations. This qualification aims to introduce learners to the use of counselling skills in everyday life and work, and some of the approaches that underpin the use of these skills. This course gives learners the opportunity to investigate the knowledge and skills needed to use counselling skills and engage in a helping interaction appropriately. You will also be taught about counselling theory and the ethical framework that informs how counsellors use their skills.

Whether you're interested in learning for work, career progression or self-development, our range of nationally recognised courses provide a flexible blended approach to your learning.

Our Enrolment Process is completely online and you will be assisted every step of the way by one of our team members.

If you require any further information, please call James Sewell on direct line 01202 205800 or email on sewellj@bpc.ac.uk
